Whiting Farms developed American Hackle to meet the demand for high quality wet fly hackle. They are heavily feathered and feature hackle that is broad and long, densely webbed with round tips and a firm, sturdy quill.

Hebert Miner™ Hackle

Whiting Farms assumed stewardship of Andy Miner & Ted Hebert's hackle rooster gene pool in 1997. Their goal is to preserve the inherent characteristics of this exceptional hackle stock while continuing the development and refinement of its hackle qualities and unique natural colours.

For realistic Mayfly wings, try using Indian Hen Back Plumage. It provides a variety of natural shades and when dyed can match the hatch. Use a Wing Burner (see Tying Tools section) to easily create an effective profile. For more durable wings, give them a coat of Superfly's ClearFlex™ (see Fly Tying Aids).
